Altai Systems Exhibiting at AMSFest Midwest 2016

Washington, DC – Altai Systems, Inc., the nation's premier Association Management Software (AMS) company based on the Microsoft Dynamics® CRM platform is excited to announce its participation in the popular technology conference AMSFest.

Workshop Chicago, May 10, 2016

AMSFest is a one-day event where association professionals mingle with Association Management Software (AMS) solutions consultants and vendors in a more intimate setting than traditional trade shows. The AMSFest event was first launched in fall of 2015 in the Washington, DC metropolitan area, and has now continued its momentum west to Workshop Chicago in Chicago, IL. Being held on May 10, 2016, this all day event features speakers such as Reggie Henry, Chief Information Officer, ASAE, and Bruce Moe, Executive Director, Missouri State Teachers Association. In addition, attendees can choose topics they'd like to hear from crowdsourced sessions posted prior to the event.

Teri Carden, Founder of ReviewMyAMS.com and AMSFest, stated her enthusiasm for this event:

"I'm in awe of the association community's enthusiasm for AMS Fest. It means that associations are primed and ready to have real conversations about how we can truly depend on and wisely use our technologies to propel us into the future.

For the second time in a row, Altai was the first to sign up as a sponsor. That's a true testimonial to the fact that they are committed to listening to and participating in these valuable conversations around bettering association technology infrastructures."

Likewise, Altai Partner, Mike Frye said "We really like what Teri has done with AMSFest. Teri has created a true 'Out of the Box' atmosphere for innovative associations looking for inventive ideas and solutions. AMSFest is not the same old thing, and I feel it is the perfect home for us to meet 'thought leadership' associations that push our products to the next level."
